Berkeley Declares 'State Of Disaster'

Thirty Youths Arrested

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — City Manager William C. Hanley has declared a state of civil disaster in this university city following two days of violence on Telegraph Avenue.

Hanley took the action Monday saying that because of the "state of disaster" he was prohibiting loitering on the avenue between 8 p.m. and 6 a.m. as well as assemblies, parades and the use of amplifiers on city streets or other public property.

Hanley acted after a bombing broke a water main Sunday night and a policeman was shot in the leg and four other patrolmen were injured Friday. That outbreak followed a rally protesting police action in Chicago during the Democratic National Convention.

During the two nights of violence 30 persons were arrested. Young activists are seeking to turn two blocks of Telegraph Avenue into a pedestrian mall.

The avenue is a narrow street lined with small shops and bookstores that runs southward from the University of California campus in this San Francisco East Bay city of 120,000. The avenue was relatively quiet Monday night as police enforced the new restriction. Leaders of activist and militant groups could not be reached immediately for comment.

TEAR GAS USED
Police used tear gas Sunday night to clear away a crowd that was attracted by the explosion that shattered windows, broke the water main and tore a hole in a building under construction. No cause for the blast has yet been found.

Concerning the activists, Police Capt. Vic Vieira said: "They just want the street for rallies and dances and they want us out of there."

"Some are students, but not all, and many are not even Berkeley residents," he continued.

Police Inspector Robert Beren

named the groups that sponsored the Friday night rally that preceded the disturbance, but said that demonstration was completed before trouble began. "We have a difficult time pinpointing the trouble makers," he said. "You can't blame it on any single organization."

Some organizations believe in more violence than others and some persons taking part "are members of no organizations," he said.

The groups that sponsored the rally Friday were the Black Panthers, a militant Negro group, the Students for a Democratic Society, the International Socialist Association, the Young Socialist Alliance and the Peace and Freedom Party.

EARLIER DISTURBANCES
Telegraph was the scene of disturbances from June 28 to July 2 during demands for the pedestrian mall and Hanley issued a report last week saying they were caused by revolutionary and anarchist groups trying to force confrontations with police.

Mayor Wallace Johnson, in a statement Monday night, contended a detective had seen an unidentified man fire a pistol at a television cameraman on a roof. No cameraman was hit.

In his statement, the mayor said: "At 9:08 p.m. activists pulled the switch on the street lights at Haste and Telegraph."

Niles Mayor Loses Bid For U-M Post

Former Niles Mayor Mowitt Drow failed in his bid for nomination to the University of Michigan Board of Regents at the state Democratic convention in Lansing last weekend. Nominated for two U-M regent posts were former State Sen. Gerald Dunn of Flushing and Robert Nederlander of Detroit. For other convention details, see page 10, section one.

Alleganite Finishes 3rd In Bridge Walk

Henrietta Wilcox of Allegan finished third in the women's division of the annual Labor Day walking race across the Mackinac Bridge. She completed the four and one-half mile distance in one hour, three minutes and two seconds. A picture and story on the bridge walk appears on page 10, section one, of this newspaper.

Cars More Deadly Than War

Holiday Crash Toll Of 656 Is New Record

By Associated Press
Traffic accidents during the Labor Day weekend claimed a record number of lives for that three-day holiday period.

The toll of 656 was more than 10 times as high as the number of Americans who died in combat during the weekend.

The previous highway death record for Labor Day was set in 1966 when 636 persons were killed. The 1967 traffic toll for the same weekend was 606.

The National Safety Council had estimated that 575 to 675 persons might die in traffic in the weekend which began at 6 p.m. local time Friday and ended at midnight Monday.

The Associated Press, for comparison purposes, surveyed traffic deaths during the nonholiday weekend starting Aug. 16 and tallied 518.

The worst single accident of this holiday period killed eight North Dakota teen-agers Sunday in a two-car crash on Interstate 94 west of Jamestown, N.D. They were returning home from a party.

Five persons were killed and eight others were injured Monday night in Union County, Ark., in two traffic accidents that occurred 45 seconds apart.

The lowest death count for a Labor Day weekend since World War II was 246 in 1946.

The deadliest holiday on traffic records was the four-day Fourth of July celebration in 1967 when 732 persons were killed.

In other accidental holiday deaths, 24 persons drowned and 40 died in boating accidents.

Not Enough Candidates For Board

Only One Running For LMC Trustee

With the deadline for filing petitions only three days away, the possibility appeared today there might not be enough candidates for two seats opening up on the Lake Michigan college board of trustees.

Berrien County Clerk Forrest Kester said only one person has taken out nominating petition forms to date. The deadline for petitions is Friday.

Mrs. John Foster of Niles, secretary of the board, said she had received about a half-dozen inquiries about the positions in the last two weeks.

Harry Nye, Royaltown township fruit grower, and Dr. A.F. Bliesmer, St. Joseph surgeon, incumbent trustees, have both indicated they will not seek reelection. The seven-member board is the governing body over the college.

Petition forms are available at the county clerk's office. Completed petitions must be returned to either the clerk's office, to Mrs. Foster, or to the LMC administrative offices by the close of business Friday.

Required signatures range from a minimum of 50 qualified voters to a maximum of 200.

Iran Quake Deaths May Hit 11,000

Scene Of Horror Told

KAKHK, Iran (AP) — Wrapped in bloodstained clothing, the dazed survivors of this shattered village wander aimlessly through the rubble.

At least 6,000 of the 7,000 people of this once prosperous village are dead or missing following the earthquake Saturday that devastated some 750 square miles in northeastern Iran. Officials estimate the death toll at about 11,000.

In Kakhk, little remains of the attractive little township that once had two broad-tree-lined streets with a pool at the crossroads and a mosaic-domed mosque overlooking it. Only the mosque still stands, and it is cracked and could collapse at any moment.

CHILDREN GONE
Most of the children are gone, buried in the debris where their homes stood.

Swollen bodies, arms and hands sticking out of the rubble, an occasional child crying for its family—these are left.

Only 3,500 bodies have been recovered, and the search for the missing continues. The feeling among the survivors is one of hopelessness.

The Shah and Empress Farah are to tour the disaster area Wednesday. The empress and others of the royal family have donated blood for the victims.

RELIEF EFFORT
Kakhk, which lies almost on the edge of the great Dasht Kavir Desert, is filled with Red Cross personnel and Boy Scouts trying to clear the rubble to find the dead and make way for rebuilding.

Rescuers pulled an old woman and her 3-year-old grandson out (See page 11, column 1)

EARTHQUAKE SITE: Map locates major towns and villages which were destroyed in earthquake which hit 750-square mile area in northeastern Iran Sunday. The quake center was believed to be near the village of Kakhk. Officials said about 11,000 persons were killed, 2,692 injured and 100,000 left homeless. (AP Wirephoto)

Michigan's Toll Near Record

Three Killed In Berrien; Six In Allegan

Thirteen persons were killed in southwestern Michigan traffic accidents over the weekend as the area made grim contributions to the state toll which hit a Labor day weekend record.

At least 52 persons perished on Michigan highways — two less than last year's record toll. The Associated Press count of highway dead started at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Monday.

Multiple-fatality accidents in Allegan, Berrien and Cass counties boosted the tragic count in southwestern Michigan.

SIX IN ALLEGAN

Six persons died in two Allegan county crashes; two young men were killed in a Berrien county collision, and a man and woman died as a result of a crash in Cass county.

The complete toll for the four-county area showed six dead in Allegan, three killed in Berrien, three in Cass and one in Van Buren.

Allegan authorities reported that 13 children were orphaned in a collision early Sunday morning on Blue Star Memorial highway, four miles south of Holland. Killed were Daniel Clark, 56, Holland, a driver, and his son, John, 14. Clark's wife was reported to have died about two years ago. The family includes 13 other children, four of whom were injured in the crash.

Four persons were killed in a three-car mishap Sunday afternoon on M-89, three miles west of Otsego in Allegan. The victims, all in one auto and of Kalamazoo, were Daniel Terrence, 75, the driver; his wife, Helen, 67; Oliver Biddle, 88; and Francis Duncombe, 78.

Terry M. Smith, 26, and Leslie C. Short, 18, both of rural Benton Harbor, were killed at midnight Sunday when the car in which they were riding collided with the rear of another car in Sodus town-

Turkish Quake Kills At Least 10

By AHMET BALAN

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — An earthquake ripped across a wide path along Turkey's northwestern Black Sea coast today, and at least 10 persons were reported killed and 200 injured.

Officials feared the toll of dead and injured would mount as contacts with the area improved.

The epicenter of the quake was the town of Bartin, according to preliminary reports received by the Ministry of the Interior in Ankara. Bartin is 200 miles northeast of Istanbul.

Turkish armed forces were rushed to the Bartin area for relief work. The Turkish radio said many homes in Bartin had collapsed, trapping victims under the debris.

The tremor was felt at 10:20 a.m. in a wide area extending from Sivas in the east, 560 miles southeast of Istanbul, to Edirne in the west, 150 miles west of Istanbul.

The radio said there were no casualties or damage in Ankara and Istanbul where the tremor was also felt.

Henry Richter

A fairly common thread in funeral sermons and lay comments on a recently deceased person is that he led a full life.

There is no hard and fast definition of what a complete life may be. The best we have learned is that an unwritten system of addition and subtraction is applied to describe the person. By approximating the assessments of many people, one comes up with an understanding of how the deceased progressed through his years on earth.

Using this intangible scale, since no other really can be found, Henry Richter led a full life.

It was not a flashy one, nor was it a dull one.

It was a day to day exemplification of the best that there is a man who conducts a business in a sound manner and who draws favorable reaction at any hour in the day from his fellow men.

The hardware store at 218 State street, now occupied by a gift shop, was an institution in Mr. Richter and the late Gus Achterberg started it in 1902.

The retailing of hardware today is almost as pre-packaged as buying meat or vegetables at the supermarket, and the younger reader may scan this with a certain scepticism when we say that if Richter's did not carry an item, the thing was no longer made.

Quality came first in his merchandising, just as quality treatment to others was second nature to Mr. Richter.

It was our privilege to know him 30 years, the upper third of his life, and we more than adopt the view of older men that his younger years were as gracious as those we knew at first hand.

Mr. Richter was one of those men who made our town.

Updating The Post Office

It is not a one-side story, but the uncertain pace in mail delivery is subjecting the Post Office to a running barrage of complaint from all sides.

Patrons of any business, public or private, are never known for sympathy toward internal woes of the business. They want results and leave it to the entrepreneur to produce them.

Since the mail is the oldest business enterprise in Uncle Sam's voluminous trouser pockets and because the Post Office affects more people than any other Department, including Treasury's omniscient Internal Revenue Service, it is only natural for squawks about the mails to receive a wide, loud airing.

That the Post Office was falling behind the times first became evident during Arthur Summerfield's tenure as Postmaster General from 1953 through 1960.

Summerfield introduced some innovations.

Fancier handling equipment was one approach.

The lease-sale method of building new offices was another.

These efforts merely scratched the surface.

Summerfield's reign, like that of his successors, was marked by a rising flood of mail and higher postal rates.

Lawrence O'Brien, just appointed Humphrey's campaign manager, when he was still the Postmaster General last year, referred to running the Department as nothing more than "a race with catastrophe."

He prevailed upon President Johnson to appoint a special commission to review the Department.

This commission presented Johnson with a 212-page package of revolutionary proposals designed to turn the nation's faltering and deficit-producing mail service over to a federal corporation patterned after private enterprise. It was headed by Frederick R. Kappel, retired board chairman of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, and it was made up of men who had spent their entire lives working out problems of labor, management and investment in business and industry.

At the outset, the job of analyzing the Department's operations with a normal business approach became impossible, because, there was no cost accounting data on mail service, and this is the basis of controlling all production, operating and marketing costs in private business.

Top management, the Postmaster General, is politically appointed, ever-changing and without authority to take any steps in such vital areas as reorganization of operations or pricing of the services sold. He ordinarily stays in office for only a couple of years or so and then moves on.

Although many of the people working with him may be permanent career postal employees, their effectiveness as managers is severely restricted by the rules and regulations of the Department which seem designed to maintain the status quo.

Postmasters on down the line in the thousands of post offices across the country are almost totally helpless to do anything to improve operations.

It is almost inconceivable, but there are no normal channels for promotion in the postal service for able people. So many obvious inconsistencies and inefficiencies in postal operations were found that it is a wonder the mails move at all.

Specific recommendations were made by the commission including, first, the elimination of the cabinet level Post Office Department and its replacement by a federal corporation. It was urged that politics be taken out of the picture by ending all political patronage jobs, fixing of mail rates by executives of the proposed corporation, subject to veto by Congress, and introduction of true collective bargaining to determine compensation for postal workers. Kappel observed that the department is in such bad shape that if it were a business up for sale, "you couldn't sell it to anybody."

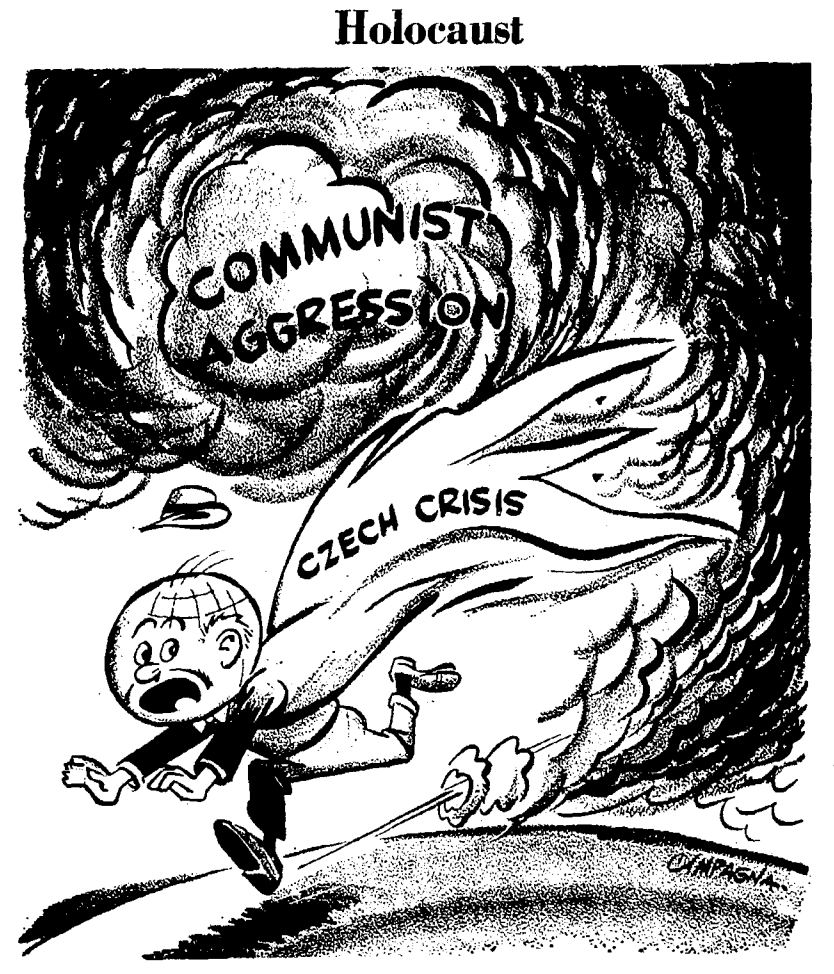

The official reaction to the special commission's report can be described at best as cool. The President commented that "this report should be widely read and studied." An early review of it has been promised which, in the slow grinding of bureaucratic machinery, sounds very much like a sentence of death by committee. In the meanwhile, the postal deficit and postal rates continue to mount.

As columnist James J. Kilpatrick points out, coast-to-coast telephone service from New York to San Francisco cost $20.70 in 1915. Now, during business hours, the charge for such a call is $1.70. In the same length of time, the cost of sending a first-class letter has risen from 2 cents to 6 cents.

Although the comparison may not entirely be fair, it is a commentary on the effectiveness of business management. The report of the Commission on Postal Organization makes good sense, and it deserves the broadest of public support. It would require high statesmanship on the part of Congress and the President to implement the proposal, but, for the entire nation, the effort would be worth it.

Even Western trained Vietnamese seldom make important decisions without consulting a medium, an astrologer, or a geomancer who predicts fortunes from geometric figures, the National Geographic says.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Up The Down Escalator

Up and DOWN escalator went two small boys on the loose in a department store. As they scrambled upward, they bumped into a woman shopper, causing her to suffer a bad fall.

In due course she filed a damage suit against the store, charging a failure to maintain order on the premises.

"But none of our employees noticed what those youngsters were doing," protested the company in court. "Surely we are not required to keep our escalators under constant surveillance."

The court agreed, and the woman's claim was turned down.

Authorities differ as to whether an escalator should be classed as a "common carrier" — like a train or a bus. However, they all agree that the management is not an absolute guarantor of a passenger's safety. Some risk is inherent in the very nature of this means of transportation. Take this case:

A woman approached an escalator, leading her small son by the hand. But just as she moved onto the first step, the boy stopped short in fright. When the woman reached back for him, she lost her balance and fell.

But again, after a court hearing, the judge could find no grounds for pinning responsibility on the management. He said the cause of the accident was simply "the effect the escalator has upon a person who steps upon it without putting is body in corresponding motion."

Nonetheless, a store is indeed obliged to prevent an accident when it reasonably can — either by adequate supervision or by proper upkeep of the equipment.

Thus:

A man who fell because an escalator gave a sudden, violent jerk won a damage award. So did a woman who slipped on a gob of grease, which has remained on an escalator step long enough for store employees to have noticed and removed it.

On the other hand, even if the management does see danger, there may be no practical way to avoid it.

In one case the hostess of a hotel spied a drunk weaving his way toward the escalator. Though she tried to restrain him, he pushed her aside, stepped aboard, and toppled backward to the floor.

Afterward, the man complained that the hostess "should have stopped me by force." But a court decided that was too much to expect — especially since he weighed twice as much as she did. All in all, the court concluded the man had no one to blame but himself.

BORN TODAY

The role of a cold-blooded killer shot Alan Ladd on his way to the top of the list of popular leading men in the movies and he played slight variations of that part the rest of his 150-movie career. The character was called Raven, and the hit movie "This Gun for Hire."

Perhaps his greatest role was in "Shane," when he portrayed a sort of Raven on horseback in the movie starring Jean Arthur and Van Heflin. That was in 1953. Other well-remembered movies include "The Carpetbaggers," "Two Years Before the Mast," "O.S.S.," "Whispering Smith," "Blue Dahlia," "Sally O'Rourke," and "The Great Gatsby," considered one of his best.

Ladd was born in 1913 in Hot Springs, Ark. When he was eight, his parents moved to California. At North Hollywood High School, he was a track and swimming star. Later, in 1932, he became diving champion of the west coast.

Following high school, he became a reporter and advertising manager for the San Fernando Sun-Record. He left the paper and got a job as a "grip" or construction worker on a movie set.

After a stint in drama school, he appeared as a stock actor on a Los Angeles radio station. Sue Carol, former actress and now an actors' agent, heard him and signed him to a contract.

In 1941 he introduced to the screen a new cold, calm type of badman, the previously-mentioned psychopathic killer, Raven. Ladd was on his way as one of the top box office attractions in the movies. He married Miss Carol the following year.

During World War II he served in the U.S. Army Air Forces.

He died Jan. 29, 1964 in Palm Springs, Calif.

DR. COLEMAN . . And Speaking Of Your Health

Families living in northern climates hardly realize that pinworm infections of the intestinal tract of children occur with some frequency. Despite rigid cleanliness in the home and excellent hygiene habits, intestinal parasites or worms do occur in all social levels.

At first, families are embarrassed because they feel that it reflects poorly on the hygiene in the home. It does not. Children will pick up these parasite infections at school, in the playground, and Dr. Coleman in camps.

The pinworm, or Oxyuris Vermicularis, has no special regard for the social, intellectual, the economic, or the geographical position of families. Often, the symptoms go unnoticed for a long time because they are so vague. In southern, sub-tropical climates, pinworm infestations are so common that the condition is suspected in every child during a physical examination.

Persistent rectal itching, poor appetite, weakness, intestinal discomfort, cramps and unexplained nausea and vomiting suggest to physicians the possibility that such a parasite exists. The diagnosis is readily confirmed by microscopic examination of the stool.

In order to understand the frequency of this condition, let me show how this disease can be transmitted from one person to another. The eggs of the pinworm hatch and grow in the intestine. Because the worm is so irritating, itching of the rectal area becomes intense. The child then scratches and thus contaminates his own fingers and, when he eats, introduces the egg into his mouth with his food and starts the cycle all over again. It is common for all members of the family to become contaminated. Adults who wash their hands before eating are less likely to become infected.

There are now a number of excellent, safe anti-parasite medicines which effectively destroy the parasite and cure the condition. In order to avoid further contamination, rigid sanitation must be maintained during treatment and even after the condition is thought to be controlled.

Children and adults must wash their hands and fingernails especially thoroughly, before each meal. The fingernails should be cut short and scrubbed with a brush after going to the toilet and before eating.

Underclothes should be changed daily and bathing twice a day is important. Each member of the family should have his own towel. The one used for the body should not be the same as the one used for drying the face. Bedclothes should be laundered daily. Children must be discouraged from putting their hands in their mouths. Toys, too, must be cleaned if re-infection is to be avoided.

There is no shame if a member of the family has this condition. As I stated, it occurs on all social levels and energy should be devoted to curing the condition rather than pretending that it does not exist. It is only fair that the parents of other children, who are playmates, should be alerted that pinworms exist and that there may be a need for careful observation.

Australia was seventh and Holland third in the 33-nation Olympiad played in June when the two teams clashed in a key match halfway through the tournament. Both aggregations were fighting hard to finish in the top four, which would automatically qualify them for the semifinals round and a shot at the championship.

Australia won the heavy-scoring match, 77 international match points to 57 (17 victory points to 3), capitalizing fully on this deal from the 20-board clash.

At the first table, with McCance and Altman and East-

At the second table, disaster struck again for the Dutch when they were outmaneuvered on this bidding:

With Howard and Seres North-South for Australia against the world-famous Dutch stars, Slavenburg and Kreyns, the Down Under pair wangled their way into a very sound spade slam after having stopped earlier in the game.

With East re-opening at five hearts, Seres deduced that his partner was probably void in hearts, in which case a slam in either spades or diamonds became a distinct possibility.

Accordingly, he bid five trump in an effort to locate the best trump suit, and ultimately X spades which was easily made.

The Australians thus gained 2,220 points on this one deal by scoring a game with the East-West cards and a slam with the North-South cards!

In the heyday of his success, the great French novelist Honore de Balzac was indulgently scribbling autographs for admirers at a watering resort when an elderly lady deposited a dog-eared notebook in his lap and said, "Would you glance at one or two of these compositions and tell me if you think their young author has any possibilities?" Balzac indulgently leafed through the notebook, then pontificated, "Madam, I believe in being frank. The lad who perpetrated these pieces is obviously slovenly, unimaginative, garbage collector, if you will, but don't, I beg you, encourage him to do any more writing."

"How fascinating," chuckled the elderly lady. "If you will turn to the name on the inside of the cover of this notebook, you will observe it was your very own when you were a little boy in Monsieur Herriot's school!"

Arrested In Hit, Run Death

Suspect Also Quizzed In Other Fatal Accident

A letter "k" found at the scene of the hit and run fatal accident Saturday on M-139, Benton township, led to the arrest of a Benton Harbor man the same day. The letter was from the hood of a car.

Eddie C. Black, 27, of 286 Second street, Benton Harbor, was arrested Saturday afternoon when he was stopped by Benton township Chief of Police Joseph Sieber. Black's car lacked the letter "k" in "Buick", police said.

Black was charged with leaving the scene of a hit and run fatal accident, no operator's license, and improper license plates. The body of Walter Cassidy, 956 Pavone street, was found at M-139 and Empire avenue early Saturday.

Benton township police also were questioning Black in connection with a hit and run death Aug. 10 on Highland avenue. Eddie Adkinson, 17, of 236 Charles street was killed by a car that matches the same colors as Black's.

Black had reported his car stolen to Benton Harbor police the same day, Benton township police said. The car was later found, with the front grill rammed against a telephone pole. The driver had fled on foot.

Angier was arrested in June 1967 by Andrew Novikoff, investigator for the Berrien county prosecutor's office on complaint of Mrs. Mary Dutenhaver, formerly of St. Joseph, who alleged that $20,000 had been obtained from her through misrepresentation.

Angier operated the National Collection Bureau until 1965.

Dolphin Will Do Tricks At Plaza

Amazing 'Flapper' Appears Here This Week

"Flapper", billed as the most traveled dolphin in the world, will entertain this week at Fairplain Plaza.

The 400-pound dolphin will perform in a 10-gallon tank Wednesday through Sunday. Shows start daily at noon and continue until 9 p.m. Flapper's appearance is sponsored by the Plaza Merchants association.

Flapper is under the direction of John Walls, who has been training dolphins since 1956. Among his other marine animal feats is the capture of a white Beluga whale in the Bering sea.

Flapper's routine includes five other persons who put her through such acts as shooting basketball goals, kicking a football, saving a baby doll from drowning and other acrobatic maneuvers. A dolphin with the similar name of "Flipper" has been the star of a television series.

KIDS CAN TOUCH HER
Walls said youngsters can actually touch the gentle Flapper while she is performing.

Flapper travels in a nine-foot coffin-like box, accompanied by an attendant who provides caresses and bits of fish. Soothing stereo music also makes her travels more tolerable.

Her daily diet consists of 25 to 30 pounds of fish flown in from Florida. Walls has been trying to convert Flapper to Great Lakes fish during performances in Michigan, but she prefers jackfish from her native Florida.

The intelligence of dolphins has amazed man from Aristotle to modern marine biologists who believe that the creatures may someday be taught to express their thoughts in human language.

Flapper's performances will be on the hour from noon to 3 p.m., then two shows an hour through 9 p.m. Wednesday through Friday. Two shows will be held hourly Saturday and Sunday. Donations are accepted.

Berrien Democrats Honor Clark

Senator Predicts His Party Will Mend Its Wounds

By RAY SMETANKA
Staff Writer

Senator Philip Hart said in a speech here Saturday night that the political convention system has apparently "broken down" and called for both parties to undertake reforms in nominating their candidates.

Speaking at a dinner in the Statler-Hilton Inn honoring Democratic candidate for county surveyor, Kenneth Clark, Sen. Hart recommended that both parties together ask "a prestigious and independent" foundation to conduct an objective study of the political convention.

"The study ought to identify the purposes a convention should serve, and determine what are the best means to accomplish those purposes. Then after studying the last five or six conventions, we could determine where the convention has gone off the rails," Hart said.

TOP QUESTION

Hart said that one of the principal questions that such a study should ask is if "we are feeding into national conventions items, issues and questions which are beyond its capacity to digest."

"For example," Hart said, "I doubt whether history will record that a party's platform ever resolved an issue such as Vietnam."

"If both parties accepted the recommendations of such a study, neither would be confessing any exclusive guilt for past errors," Hart said.

Hart said that the necessity for such a study was dramatized by both the Democratic and Republican conventions this year.

"I sense that something less than full confidence has been engendered in the American people by these last two performances this month," he said.

In his speech, Hart, who had supported Senator Eugene McCarthy at the Democratic convention, called for all Democrats to unite behind the party nominee Hubert Humphrey.

Referring to those dissident Democrats, including Senator McCarthy, who are strongly opposed to Humphrey's Vietnam war views, Hart said, "I just hope that when their disappointment diminishes their reason will return, because over the long haul the Democratic party is just better medicine for everyone than the Republicans."

PRAISES MUSKIE
Although Hart hailed Humphrey as a "Grade A" candidate, he was especially warm in his praise of Humphrey's running mate, Senator Edmund Muskie of Maine.

"Senator Muskie is just great, he's a senator's senator," he said. "His capacities under pressure are public record. Even the most careful observer would describe him as good, decent, sound and a great senator."

Clark of Berrien Springs was honored by fellow Democrats for drawing a plan for reapportionment of Berrien county into new districts for the election of supervisors. Clark's plan was not adopted, but the county reapportionment commission used data he had collected.

Program chairman Tat Parish estimated that the dinner, attended by approximately 125 persons, netted almost $700 to be used for the party's candidates in their campaigns for county and legislative offices.

Parish said the crowd was about 70 per cent of that expected "if everyone who bought tickets had come."

PREDICTS VICTORY

Afterwards, Hart predicted to newsmen that the Democratic party, seemingly divided by the Vietnam war issue, will unite for the November election.

"At the end of every contested party convention there are some people who are disappointed, but in the light of the next day and considering the chilly prospect offered by the Republicans, they'll return to the Democratic fold," Hart said.

Hart went on to say that the bitter convention fight in Chicago was a good sign.

"The debate in Chicago showed at least that there is more vitality among Democrats than Republicans, who met in Miami to discuss the water temperature. At least we recognize what are the important issues facing America."

WeatherShift In Michigan
Forecast Service

Public weather forecasts for the entire state of Michigan will shift from Chicago to Detroit in mid-October, according to the U.S. Weather Bureau.

Also, basic agricultural forecasts for western lower Michigan will be shifted from Grand Rapids to Detroit.

The office at Detroit Metropolitan airport will issue the state and zone weather forecasts for both Upper and Lower Michigan, aviation terminal weather forecasts for 16 Michigan airports, and the general agricultural weather forecasts for western lower Michigan.

The Grand Rapids office will continue the daily collection of agricultural weather reports and issue short-term agricultural weather warnings as needed and during the growing season. These changes are among the first step in a nationwide program that will ultimately distribute the work among about 50 weather bureau forecast offices, instead of the present 26 offices.

All Michigan weather bureau field offices will continue to announce severe storm warnings in their respective areas and adapt forecasts to local conditions.

Three persons drowned in southwestern Michigan over the Labor Day weekend, and authorities were searching for a possible fourth victim.

The victims were Kenneth Allen, 13, Chicago, who drowned Monday near Union Pier in Lake Michigan; Claude A. Esch, 18, Washington, Ill., who drowned Monday in Lake Michigan in Van Buren county, near the Berrien county line; and Andrew Bradley, 50, Covert, who drowned Monday in the Kalamazoo river near Douglas in Allegan county.

MAY HAVE DROWNED
Allegan authorities were searching for Sylvester Richardson, 25, believed to have drowned in the Kalamazoo river where he and Bradley had been fishing.

Allen became Berrien county's eighth drowning victim of 1968. His body was found by fellow swimmers 50 yards off a private beach at Union Pier, in about six feet of water. Witnesses said he complained of cramps and disappeared under rough waves. Attempts at artificial respiration failed.

Esch was the eighth drowning victim in Van Buren county. State police said the youth was swimming with Mary Esch, believed to be his sister, near the family cottage, when the two became caught in an undertow.

GIRL REACHES SHORE
Mary managed to reach shore and summon help. The body was found about an hour later a few feet off shore and was removed to Florin funeral home, Benton Harbor.

Bradley's body was found in the Kalamazoo river after a marine deputy came on a cap-sized boat Monday night. He was the second drowning this year in Allegan county. Allegan deputies learned that Richardson had been fishing with Bradley.

Officers dragged the river in search of Richardson until 2 a.m. and were to resume the search later today.

Allegan Fire Chief Mel Truax said his department was called at 5:50 a.m. Sunday, adding that the blaze had to much of a head start for firemen to save the structure. Cause of the fire is believed to be defective wiring.

At 4:20 p.m. Saturday, another fire destroyed a 45 by 36 foot barn with attached garage and shed on the Max Miller farm seven miles southwest of Allegan. Bloomingdale township firemen reported that 40 young pheasants were destroyed.

AMC Plans Minicar Next Year

DETROIT (AP) — A high ranking American Motors source Monday confirmed reports that AMC was about to make its long awaited move of jumping into the minicar market, the better to do battle with Volkswagen.

The official, who declined use of his name, said AMC had begun preliminary work on a project which will see a new, small car introduced a year from now.

"There are problems in tooling which can not be speeded up," he said in explaining why it would take a year to get the car to market.

AMC's current smallest car, the compact Rambler, which has a 106-inch wheelbase and a base sticker of $1,946 with a six cylinder engine, has not been able to halt VW's success in the American market. Indications are that VW will wind up calendar 1968 with about 400,000 sales, better than half the import market. AMC is aiming at 300,000 sales for the year.

AMC officials apparently have reversed the attitude the company held for the past five years—namely, that the costs of tooling up for a new car in the minicar or subcompact field would be prohibitive.

Their decision was hurried along in part by Ford's reported program of building a subcompact, with the code name Delta, for introduction next year, perhaps as early as May, 1970.

Chrysler has said it has no minicar in the works for 1970 models but it left the door open for a crash program to bring one out for Ford and AMC build one. General Motors' official line is that it has no such project on the boards.

STATE FAIR May Get $100 Million Stadium

DETROIT (AP) — Gov. George Romney has told a Michigan State Fair audience of plans for the construction of a domed, year-round stadium at the State Fairgrounds that may cost as much as $100 million.

Romney said the State Fair Authority stadium committee already had provided $200,000 to study the economic feasibility of a stadium at the fairgrounds.

After taking delivery of the Notes, the purchaser shall obtain the signature of such Bank or Trust Company upon the Notes as aforesaid. All fees or charges, if any, of such Bank or Trust Company shall be paid by such purchaser.

SAID NOTES will be special obligations of the Local Public Agency and will be secured by a requisition agreement between the Local Public Agency and the United States of America under the terms of which agreement the United States of America agrees to lend the Local Public Agency prior to the maturity of said Notes an amount sufficient to pay the principal and interest of all said Notes and agrees to cause so much of the proceeds of such loan as shall be sufficient to pay the principal of and interest upon any of said Notes to be deposited at the respective Bank or Trust Company at which said Notes are payable for the benefit of the holder or holders thereof. Under the proceedings authorizing said Notes, the proceeds of such loan payment will be irrevocably pledged first to the payment, at maturity, of the principal of and interest on said Notes.

THE VALIDITY of the Notes and said requisition agreement shall be subject to approval by attorneys designated by the purchaser in the Proposal. Complete certified transcripts of proceedings, including organization transcript as required, evidencing the validity of the Notes and of said requisition agreement will be furnished such attorneys at least 5 days prior to the date of the Notes. The fees or charges of the attorneys shall be paid by the purchaser.

ALL PROPOSALS for the purchase of any of said Notes shall be submitted in a form approved by the Local Public Agency and shall be enclosed in a sealed envelope, addressed to the Local Public Agency, which should be marked on the outside "Proposal for Preliminary Loan Notes." Copies of such form of proposal may be obtained from the Local Public Agency at the address indicated above. Proposals may be submitted subject to completion pursuant to telegraphic instructions or proposals may be submitted in their entirety by telegram. Telegraphic instructions or proposals must be received by the Local Public Agency at or before the time above specified for the opening of proposals. A telegraphic proposal should identify and be made pursuant to the Notice of Sale, identify the Notes, and specify the principal amount, interest rate, premium, denominations, name of said attorneys, and place of payment of the Notes covered by the proposal. In view of certain statutory and policy limitations, no award of the Notes will be made at an interest rate per annum which is not less than Six per centum (6.0 percent).

PROPOSALS may be for all or any part of the Notes, and separate proposals will be required for each part of said Notes for which a separate interest rate is bid. The interest rate specified for each part of said Notes shall be a multiple of one-hundredth (1/100) of one percent (1 percent). Said Notes will be awarded at the lowest interest rate or rates offered in the proposals, without reference to premium; provided, however, that, as among proposals specifying the same lowest interest rate, award will be made on the basis of the highest premium per dollar principal amount of Notes specified in such proposals. No bid for less than $50,000 principal amount of said Notes or for less than par and accrued interest (which interest shall be computed on a 360-day basis) will be entertained, and the Local Public Agency reserves the right to award to any bidder all or any part of the Notes which such bidder offers to purchase in his proposal, upon the basis of such proposal; provided, that if less than $50,000 principal amount of Notes is to be awarded to any bidder, such bidder will be relieved of the obligation to purchase such Notes upon written notice to the Local Public Agency within two days after notification of such proposed award. If only a part of the Notes bid for in a proposal are awarded by the Local Public Agency, the premium, if any, offered in such proposal shall be prorated, and said Notes will be issued in denominations in the order of the lowest denominations specified in such proposal; provided that one Note may be issued in a smaller denomination than is otherwise specified. The further right is reserved to reject any or all proposals.

SECTION 102(g) of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1452), provides as follows: "Obligations, including interest thereon, issued by local public agencies for projects assisted pursuant to this title, and income derived by such agencies from such projects, shall be exempt from all taxation now or hereafter imposed by the United States." In the event that prior to the delivery of any of the Notes to the successful bidder thereof the income received by private holders from obligations of the same type and character shall be taxable by the terms of any Federal income tax law hereafter enacted, the successful bidder may, at his election, be relieved of his obligations under the contract to purchase said Notes.
